Re: eCitation/eCrash Software/Hardware Purchase

As a process of ever changing times and keeping up with the pace of technology, our office and other local agencies have been waiting for the opportunity to upgrade our in-car citation issuing systems. We were required to wait for the District Court to get online with the ability to receive citations electronically from our cars and that time has finally come.

Within the last two months, the State of Michigan, District Court and the Eaton County Sheriff's Office have purchased the hardware and software and have this project up and running. We were originally given a quote within the last two years for this project from another provider and it was cost prohibitive at that time. A grant was applied for as well and that funding was denied.

This last August I requested a quote from a provider that we have used for years that provides other Law Enforcement investigative services and which we have a great working relationship with. This quote was half the expense of the previous quote. This provider, LexisNexis, is the same company that supplies our 56th District Court and Sheriff's Office with their equipment. With those two organizations up and running with the system, we felt confident in requesting the purchase of the system because it would be compatible with the Court and Sheriff's Office systems. Additionally this system will offer increased officer safety when issuing citations in time spent on an encounter and transferring data from the license to the citation. Additionally, this quote and company supply the eCrash software as well at no cost when purchasing the eCitation product. eCrash will be necessary for us to remain compliant with the online State of Michigan Crash reporting system already in place.

This quote provides for the LexisNexis eCitation system for each car (5), annual support and maintenance, in-car printers (5), and at no expense the LexisNexis eCrash software and maintenance. Paper rolls would be at our expense and are estimated to cost us $66.46 for a case at one case per year. RECOMMENDATION: To purchase compatible equipment and software from LexisNexis for eCitation and eCrash programs for the quote of $7,595.50.
