Comment: As a local business owner I am fully invested in the future vibrancy of the City of Charlotte. Along with many others with this same goal, I choose to be involved in the success of our town by proudly serving on four local boards, Charlotte Rotary, Chamber of Commerce, CANDO, and HGB Development Council.

In this work, I have had the pleasure of working with our City Manager Gregg Guetschow many times over the years on a number of community projects. He has been an excellent leader and is often the voice of reason and compromise in a room of chaos. I consider Gregg to be a mentor to not only myself but to all future community leaders who will work closely with him.

I feel that in the last few years Charlotte has improved in countless ways. We have a community that is filled with local pride, kids with ever growing school spirit and business owners that are willing to invest in the town. Personally, my business is poised to invest in a very large housing development project that would infuse millions of dollars into the economy and attract new quality residents. Such an investment can only prudently be made in an environment backed by strong leadership dedicated to the potential for growth.

It is your responsibility as elected officials to keep this momentum we have moving in the right direction. To this end, retaining Gregg is crucial.
